SUMMARY

As a Full Stack Web Developer with a background in Philosophy, I've always had an unquenchable thirst for knowledge. My passion for education and continued learning drove me to complete an intensive 24-week-long web development and coding boot camp at the University of Washington. I discovered a passion for design and development and have since completed multiple online programs covering a broad range of computer science fundamentals and various technologies. My continuous pursuit of knowledge, unrivaled work ethic, ability to learn on the fly, and meticulous attention to detail will allow me to excel in all future endeavors.
